'GOING GREEN' SEMINAR AND COLLABORATION WITH SANKALP TARU FOUNDATION

We want to move towards a green economy as one that results in improved human well-being and social equity, while significantly reducing environmental risks and ecological scarcities. The seminar was a wake-up call to move towards going green as a way of life. Planting more trees and thinking green. Managing vulnerability to climate change impacts such as drought is a key challenge.

Students were motivated to get insights about how going green is important. Why should we go green? Why should they as global citizens contribute? How are they going to contribute? The seminar was invigorating and motivated students to take up voluntary activities with the NGO, Sankalp Taru with whom collaboration was being signed up.

Sankalp Taru Foundation is an IT-enabled NGO, spreading greenery with its core philosophy of 'planting trees for the people, by the people. Having rooted close to a million trees across the states and majorly polluted cities of India, they are constantly escalating healthy happy smiles by planting trees. At the end of the program, all students got participation certificates for the program.

CREATIVE CORNER

EPIPHANY

-Vaishnavi Vinay

In that abrupt tranquility which descended
My love looked as a pretentious portrait
Hiding within a thousand faces
Woven by Arachne's thread
In the sentient emotions that overflowed
I recognized myself to be a mystery
Disaster and beauty within one
A work worthy of Van Gogh
The starry night and a suicide note
A sound of something breaking
An epiphany
I loved everyone but myself
Within me I held magic
An angel, devil and beast
I was told to be pretty is happy
So I strived to hide myself within the folds of cloth and fabric
But I knew within I held a beast who craved to seize the world
Something wild and unpredictable
Like the seasons, shining but scarred
Wanting to bloom and wither
There was no lie in my fire
I set unchained that magnificent beast within me to run wild and free
I had admired its fierceness within the shadows
Here I walk bare with no veil
All my wounds and scars revealed
Let the world judge and predict
Let it cower and scream
Before this beast within my soul

FIDDLER LIVES

-Mithun Ram

Hands still moved effortlessly
Your name remained too familiar to forget
My feet took me down the path all too nostalgic
Hoping to lead me to you
Still turned my head to those songs
That we shared under the moonlight
Places we shared memories
Had me smile with a certain softness
All that which was meant to hurt
Brought forth the warmth I thought I had lost
Your smile, remained a sight to behold
Your voice, as addictive as ever
I knew of the silence we shared
But the little memories we sculpted
Played their melody like the fiddler
Alone in the dark, on top of the world.
